

Summer Term 2021

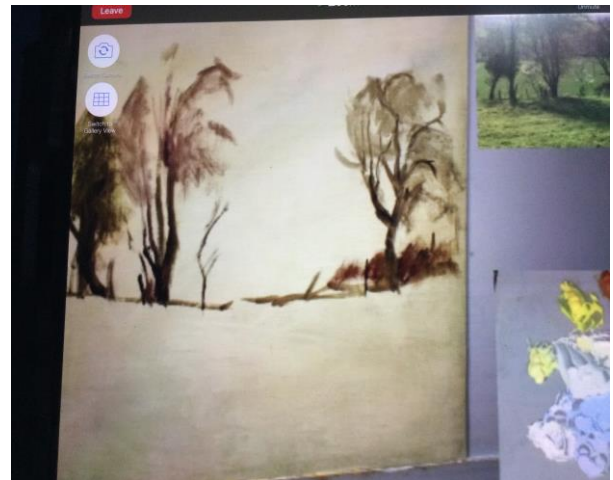

Vicki Norman demonstration

In April, we enjoyed an oil painting demonstration by Vicki Norman on zoom which was well received by the members.

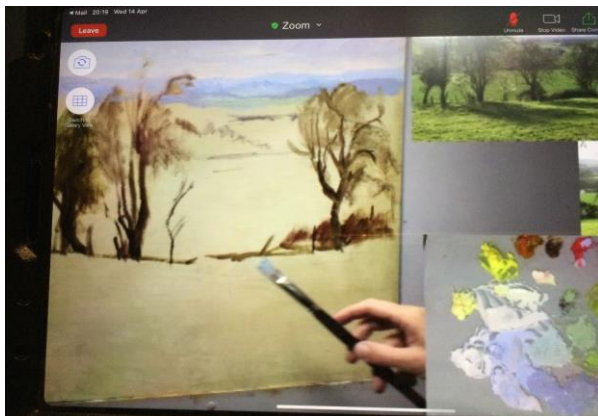

Vicki used 'light and colour in the landscape' as the subject for her demonstration and painted a Shropshire landscape. She considers that one of the keys to improving our paintings is to learn to see and to observe colour better. She always mixes her colours first from a fairly limited palette, bearing in mind that in the distance of a scene, colours appear greyer and with less contrast and in the foreground, colours appear darker and with more contrast.

Reference photo

Initial oil drawing

Painting the background in pale blue/pink tones

Starting on the foreground

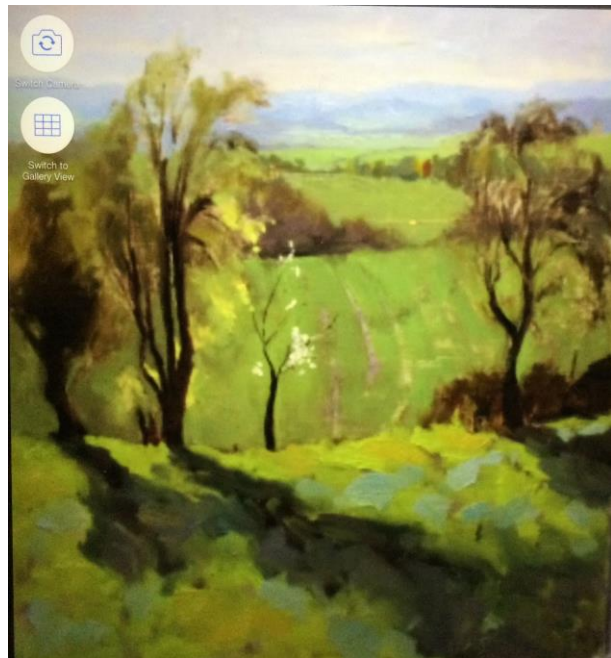

Blocking in the foreground

Adding more details

Working more into the foreground

Finished painting